Heroes Von Camden Douglas Very inspiring accounts of the actions of Medal of Honor Recipients. Easy to read and you don't want to put it down.

Kurzbeschreibung In this extraordinary book, 15 recipients of the Congressional Medal of Honor tell the stories of the actions for which they received their awards. The stories themselves present true examples of valor, courage, and sacrifice. More than stories, however, they recount moments of significance in the life of our country. The Congressional Medal of Honor is the highest award given to American servicemen for valor in battle. Only slightly more than 200 recipients of the Medal of Honor are alive today. In this extraordinary book, 15 recipients tell the stories of the actions for which they received their awards. Heroes from the Marines, the Army, the Navy, and the Air Force recount their stories of action in World War II, Korea, and Vietnam. Together, their stories present a definition of heroism in battle. Individually, they are fifteen profiles of the Hero. The stories, based on interviews with the recipients and written by Kent DeLong, the attending physician of the Congressional Medal of Honor Society, are well-told and exciting. They present true examples of valor, courage, and sacrifice. But they are more than just stories. They are the oral history of significant moments in the life of our country.

Pressestimmen "This book is truly an accurate account of the deeds of war heroes, those special individuals who have performed so courageously on the battlefield." - General William C. Westmoreland "This book honors the men of our country who truly deserve the recognition of helping to make our nation free; men who were willing to sacrifice their own lives, many in the early years of their manhood, for the ideals of freedom. This book tells the exciting and incredible true stories of some of these great men who are the recipients of the Congressional Medal of Honor--the highest award given to American servicemen for valor in battle." - J. Elliott Williams, President Congressional Medal of Honor Society
